A LIFE ON WATER

4.1.
------	--

When the bank refused to give Holly Sharp and her husband Noah a loan to buy a house, they had to find an alternative they could afford. They had always liked the idea of living in a small space, so when they saw an old houseboat for sale, they quickly made up their minds and bought it. Starting all over again wasn't easy, but now, after a year living on the boat, they have no regrets.

4.2.
------	--

Holly says that since moving onto their houseboat their financial situation has improved. Apart from not having to pay any rent, they don't use gas at all, and they pay less for electricity. There is a wood stove on the boat, and their family and friends give them wood for free. A year ago, they couldn't even imagine that it was possible to live so cheaply.

4.3.
------	--

The couple spent the first few months renovating the boat and they still have a lot of work left to do. Noah has learnt how to fix things around the boat, so they don't have to call specialists for help. They also enjoy doing jobs together, like painting parts of the boat and polishing furniture. In the past they didn't even think about doing things like this on their own, although it turns out they are actually quite easy.

4.4.
------	--

Adapting to life on a houseboat has been quite a challenge because there isn't much room on board. The couple can't have as many things as they used to, but they have managed to find space for their stamp albums, Holly's electric piano and a few pieces of art brought back from their honeymoon in Italy. Unfortunately, having a party on board of a small boat is nearly impossible.

Przeczytaj trzy teksty związane z książkami. Z podanych odpowiedzi wybierz właściwą, zgodną z treścią tekstu. Zakreśl jedną z liter: A, B albo C.

Tekst 1.

A recent survey found that nearly three quarters of Americans read at least one book a year. Although nowadays audio books and eBooks are widely available, printed books are still the most popular format. People who read books on a daily basis know that reading makes them feel good, and they can relax by getting lost in a good story. Reading reduces stress more than walking, listening to music or playing games. Also, readers tend to be kinder, because reading about the experiences and feelings of others helps you to understand the people around you.

5.1. Which is the best title for the text?

- A. THE BENEFITS YOU RECEIVE FROM READING
- B. THE REASONS SOME PEOPLE AVOID READING BOOKS
- C. THE ADVANTAGES OF E-BOOKS COMPARED TO PRINTED BOOKS

Tekst 2.

THE BOOK I'VE JUST READ

The Compound by Stephanie Stuve-Bodeen is a book that I didn't want to read because some friends told me it was boring. However, one day I finally took the book off my shelf. As soon as I started reading it, I just couldn't put it down. It was much better than I had expected. I honestly thought it would be just an average book, nothing special. But I was wrong. The story is full of action and mystery, which makes it such a pleasure to read! You won't regret giving it a try, in fact you might end up writing a review like mine!

Na podstawie: www.teenink.com

5.2. The author of this text

- A. gives a summary of a book.
- B. encourages readers to read a book.
- C. suggests that readers should share their book reviews.

Tekst 3.

IN SEARCH OF A BOOK

I went to the school library to return some books and to borrow my favourite one. Our librarian, Mrs. Jones, has a rule that a book has to remain on the shelf for five whole school days before you can borrow it again. She says that it's to make sure other people get a chance to read it. Today was the day that I could borrow my favourite book again. I said "Good morning Mrs. Jones" with hidden excitement as I put my books on the returns shelf, and she replied cheerfully "Good morning Amy". I then hurried to the H-N shelves where I knew my book would be waiting for me. But it wasn't there. I looked behind the books, in case it had been pushed back and hidden, but... there was no sign of it.

5.3. Amy didn't borrow her favourite book because she

- A. didn't remember to return some books on time.
- B. couldn't find it in its usual place.
- C. hadn't obeyed Mrs Jones' rule.

“Lucy ...”

“What?” I was so excited waiting for the bell to ring that I didn’t hear my teacher calling my name. “Oh.” I raised my head, looked at the long math problem written across the whiteboard, and said, “Four.” Mrs. Clark looked at me and then at the numbers she’d written. “Correct. That’s all for...” Suddenly the bell rang, so by the time the teacher finished speaking, I was already down the hall.

I’d been waiting for this moment since the day I saw the information on the school website, and now here it was. I was finally going to my very first programming club meeting! I started running. I’d already picked out my seat in the computer lab. I wanted to take a seat in the first row. I had to have it!

Oof! Suddenly I ran into someone!

“Watch where you’re going,” Sophia Torres said, blocking me from entering the computer lab. “I’m sorry,” I answered. I just wanted her to move and let me in. There were a few kids at school who scared me, but Sophia wasn’t one of them. “Shouldn’t you be doing sporty stuff or something?” I asked her.

“I’m taking Mondays off for this. This club meeting is important to me, too,” she answered. And with that, she entered the room, throwing herself into the seat that I’d wanted to have for myself. I had to take the seat at the end of the row because a bunch of other kids ran into the room and pushed me back before Mrs. Clark arrived. I was glad she was in charge of the club. She was born in Lebanon, went to university in England, and then came to the United States where she became a teacher. She told us interesting stories about travelling the world, and the things she had done before becoming a teacher. I liked her so much that I almost wanted to be a teacher like her... but only almost. I was going to be a computer programmer, just like my mom.

When were we going to start programming? We were ten minutes into club time, and Mrs. Clark was still calling the names out of the register. When it seemed that she had almost finished, something finally happened.

Beep! Beep! Beep!

I looked around for a few moments before realizing the noise was coming from my backpack. I grabbed my phone and tried to silence it. But the screen stayed dark, and the beeps got louder. Mrs. Clark came over to my desk. I handed my phone over to her. She started looking through my apps. Suddenly, the beeps stopped.

“Looks like someone has made a fake game and downloaded it onto your phone. It’s programmed to beep and freeze your phone. I’m deleting this app, have a look at what I’m doing,” Mrs. Clark said.

“Oh,” I knew exactly who had messed with my phone and from the look on Mrs. Clark’s face, she did, too. Two afternoons a week, he was her student. “Say hi to Alex for me when you see him,” Mrs. Clark said. “I will,” I answered, but we both knew that when I got home, I was going to have a lot more than “hi” to say to my brother.

THE MARRIAGE PROPOSAL

I was going to ask Anne, my girlfriend, to marry me, so I invited her to the restaurant where we'd had our first date. I wore a suit and brought a huge bouquet of flowers with me. She was supposed to meet me at 7 p.m. so I got there a little early. 7.1. _____ It was located in a terrible spot – right in the middle of the restaurant. We had joked about how bad it was on our first date, still I knew I had to get that table as it was special for us! I gave my phone to the waitress so she could take some pictures when I asked Anne to marry me. The waitress happily agreed and quietly informed other guests about my plans. I sat down, smiled and waited. 7.2. _____ Seeing how sad I was, people started coming up to my table, saying "It will be okay, don't worry." and "Good luck, man, I'm sure everything will work out." After another ten minutes had passed, the waitress came and gave me my phone back. I took it and saw that I had received a text message from Anne. It read: "I'm waiting in the car park, let me know when you get here." 7.3. _____ We sat down at our table and everything was wonderful. But I'm sure there were plenty of people who had already left the restaurant that evening thinking she had broken up with me.

Na podstawie: www.reddit.com

- A. I felt so disappointed that I left the restaurant and went home.
- B. I chose exactly the same table that we'd had during our first date.
- C. I immediately ran out outside to where she was, and we returned to the restaurant together.
- D. We knew that the restaurant was definitely too far away to get to on foot.
- E. The church clock struck 7 p.m. but my future wife did not appear, and I was still sitting alone 45 minutes later looking very unhappy.
